Statement to environmental, hazardous materials

Dear Customer

The "Directive 2002/95/EG of the European Parliament and of the council of January 27, 2003 on the restriction of the use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment" stipulates that from July 1, 2006, new electrical and electronic equipment put on the market are restrained to contain lead, cadmium, hexavalent chromium, mercury and polybrominated biphenyls (PBB) or polybrominated diphenyl ethers (PBDE). The aim of the Directive is amongst others to make a contribution to health protection and to the environmental oriented recycling and disposal of electrical and electronic waste.

The publication of the revised "Directive 2015/863/EU of the European Parliament and of the council of June 08, 2011, brings an expanded application area. This means, that in future all electrical and electronic equipment, inclusively medical electronic equipment and monitoring devices with view exceptions, is regulated with RoHS.

Algra tec AG is aware of its responsibility towards environment and customers and makes a contribution to fulfill the norm through optimized production flows, environment-oriented processes and materials.

We herewith confirm that we observe the Directive 2015/863/EU of the European Parliament and of the council of March 31, 2015 on the restriction of the use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment. The piezo ceramics in our keyboards contain lead, and currently there are no equivalent replacements available. For this reason, we are making use of the RoHS exemption 7c-IV.
